FIRST AMENDED CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT FOR VIOLATIONS OF THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT OF 1990 AND NEW YORK CITY HUMAN RIGHTS LAW

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiff RAFAEL CORDERO (“Plaintiff”) brings this class action both on an individual basis, and on behalf of all others similarly situated, for declaratory relief, injunctive relief, and compensatory damages—including statutory and punitive damages—against defendant named herein, and alleges based upon the personal knowledge of Plaintiff, the investigation of counsel, and upon information and belief, as follows:

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. Plaintiff is a visually-impaired and legally blind person¹ who brings this civil rights class action against defendants Polar Electro Inc. and Polar Electro Oy (collectively “Defendant”) for its failure to design, construct, maintain, and operate its website to be fully accessible to—and independently usable by—Plaintiff and other blind or visually-impaired people who use screen-reading software. Plaintiff asserts this action individually and on behalf of all other visually-impaired and/or legally blind individuals in the United States who have attempted to access Defendant’s website and have been denied access to the equal enjoyment of the goods offered on the website during the past three years from the date of the filing of the complaint (the “Class” and “Class Period”).

2. On June 26, 2022, July 14, 2022, and July 30, 2022, Plaintiff browsed and attempted to transact business on Defendant’s website, www.polar.com (“website” or “Defendant’s website”). The main reason Plaintiff visited the website was to, inter alia, purchase a fitness watch. Defendant designs and sells fitness watches, heart rate sensors, and other related accessories. Defendant markets itself as a pioneer in the field of creating data driven, wearable devices, as it invented the first wireless EKG heart monitor in the 1970s. Today, Defendant's devices are worn by athletes and everyday consumers alike, as they have expanded their brand and product. On its website, Defendant assures consumers that its products are backed by science, noting that it has its own "in-house team of experts from technology, physiology and data science." The website includes links to its Research Library and White Papers.

3. Plaintiff is interested in buying the Polar Ignite, which is a fitness watch designed by Defendant and sold on its website, for himself. The Polar Ignite comes with "advanced wrist-based heart rate and integrated GPS." Defendant markets it as the perfect "workout partner" for those reasons. Online reviewers describe the Polar Ignite as setting "a new benchmark for fitness watches that recommends workouts and track sleep and recovery." Overall, the Polar Ignite is a desirable product, to any consumer, for its features and Defendant's name recognition as a trusted brand.

4. Unfortunately, purchasing products on Defendant's website, including the Polar Ignite, is difficult, if not impossible, for visually impaired people. For example, the screen reader has the following problems due to the website's accessibility issues:

(a) The product filter is not accessible, so it is hard for the user to find what they are looking for. This denies Plaintiff the ability to make an informed decision as to all the available products, as a sighted New York customer could. It also delays Plaintiff's ability to navigate the website, as a sighted New York customer would.

(b) Some links on the page do nothing when pressed with the "enter" key. This delays Plaintiff's ability to navigate the website, as a sighted New York customer would.

(c) The narrator does not say when something is added to the shopping cart. This prevents Plaintiff from completing a purchase, as a sighted New York customer would.

(d) The narrator does not say the names of products correctly. This denies Plaintiff the ability to make an informed decision as to all the available products, as a sighted New York customer could.

(e) The buttons to increase the quantity of an item after it is added to the shopping cart are not labeled. This prevents Plaintiff from completing a purchase, as a sighted New York customer would.

5. Accessibility barriers continue to exist on the website as of the date of the filing of this amended complaint, as they have on each of Plaintiff's prior visits to the website. Plaintiff remains unable to, but still strongly desires and intends to, purchase the Polar Ignite from Defendant's website as soon as the barriers that impede his ability to do so are removed.

6. Defendant and its website violate Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 ("ADA"), 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., and the New York City Human Rights Law ("NYCHRL"), N.Y.C. Administrative Code §§ 8-101 et seq., as the website is not equally accessible to blind and visually-impaired consumers.

7. Plaintiff and the Class bring this action against Defendant seeking, inter alia, a preliminary and permanent injunction, other declaratory relief, statutory damages, actual and punitive damages, pre-judgment and post-judgment interest, and reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

8. This Court has subject-matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331.

9. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1367 over Plaintiff's NYCHRL claims.

10. Defendant is subject to personal jurisdiction in this District. Defendant operates and distributes its products throughout the United States, including to consumers and others in this District. Fitness watches and the like can be directly ordered from Defendant's website for delivery to locations in New York. Plaintiff has been denied the full use and enjoyment of the goods offered on Defendant's website in this District. It was here that Defendant committed a substantial part of the acts or omissions that caused injury to Plaintiff and the Class in violation of the ADA and the NYCHRL.

11. The access barriers that Plaintiff encountered on multiple occasions have caused a denial of Plaintiff's full and equal access to Defendant's website multiple times in the past, and his repeated inability to navigate and complete a purchase on the website on three separate occasions continues to deter Plaintiff on a regular basis from accessing the Defendant's website to buy Defendant's benchmark-setting fitness watches until such barriers are cured.

12. This Court is empowered to issue declaratory relief under 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202.

13. Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b)(2), and (c) because: (i) Defendant's unlawful course of conduct occurred in large part in this District; and (ii) Plaintiff attempted to utilize the website in this District.

PARTIES

Plaintiff

14. Plaintiff is a resident of the Bronx, New York. Plaintiff is a blind, visually-impaired, handicapped person and a member of a protected class of individuals as defined under 42 U.S.C. § 12102(1)-(2) – and the regulations implementing the ADA set forth at 28 CFR §§ 36.101 et seq. – and as defined under the NYCHRL.

Defendants

15. Defendant Polar Electro Inc. is a corporation registered in New York. Defendant conducts business in New York through its website, which is a place of public accommodation as defined under 42 U.S.C. § 12181(7).

16. Defendant Polar Electro Oy is a limited company registered in Kempele, Finland. Defendant conducts business in New York through its website, which is a place of public accommodation defined under 42 U.S.C. § 12181(7).

SUBSTANTIVE ALLEGATIONS

The visually-impaired use screen-readers to access the Internet.

17. In 2017, the Centers for Disease Control (“CDC”) estimated that the blind population in the United States reached approximately 1.7 million. The American Foundation for the Blind’s website states that the 2019 American Community Survey (conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau) identified an estimated 388,524 New Yorkers with vision difficulty.

18. The Internet has become a significant source of information, a portal, and a tool for conducting business, doing everyday activities such as shopping, learning, banking, researching, as well as many other activities for sighted, blind, and visually-impaired persons alike. According to Pew Research, in 2021 three out of ten American adults are almost constantly online, up from approximately two in ten in 2015. Per a study by the MIT Technology Review published in 2018, the average American spends 23.6 hours of every week online. According to studies cited by CNBC, as of 2018, Americans spent 234 million hours shopping online during the average workday. Thus, in today’s tech-savvy, instantaneous world of online commerce, blind and visually-impaired people must have the ability to access websites using keyboards in conjunction with screen access software that vocalizes the visual information found on a computer screen to enjoy the same convenience and savings allowed by online shopping as sighted New Yorkers. The technology that aides blind and visually-impaired internet users to do this is known as screen-reading software.²

19. Blind and visually-impaired users of Microsoft Windows operating system-enabled computers and devices have several screen-reading software programs available to them. Some of these programs are available for purchase and other machines have built-in integrated software. NonVisual Desktop Access, otherwise known as “NVDA” is currently one of the most popular screen-reading software programs available for PCs.

20. Unless websites are designed, properly coded, and updated to be read by screen-reading software, blind and visually-impaired persons are unable to fully access websites, and the information, products, goods, and services contained thereon.

A company’s website must accommodate the use of screen readers

21. For screen-reading software to function, the information on a website must be capable of being rendered into text. If the website content is not capable of being rendered into text, the blind or visually-impaired user is unable to access the same content available to sighted users.

22. The international website standards organization, the World Wide Web Consortium, known universally as W3C, has published an updated version (version 2.1) of the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (“WCAG”). WCAG 2.1 is a set of well-established guidelines promulgated to ensure that websites are accessible to blind and visually-impaired people. Non-compliant websites usually contain numerous common access barriers that prevent the blind and visually-impaired from enjoying the Internet in the same way sighted individuals do.

Defendant's website discriminates against the visually-impaired by containing access barriers

23. Defendant is an online retail company that owns and operates a website offering numerous products it designs and sells, including the Polar Ignite, described in paragraphs 2 and 3, above. Defendant delivers these products to New York and across the country. Defendant offers its website so that, inter alia, the general public can transact business on it.

24. It is Defendant's policy and practice to deny Plaintiff and the Class access to its website and to specifically deny the goods offered to the general public. Due to Defendant's failure and refusal to remove access barriers to its website, Plaintiff and the Class have been—and currently are—denied equal access to the website and the goods offered thereon.

25. Plaintiff is visually-impaired and/or legally blind. Plaintiff uses the NVDA screen-reader to access websites on the Internet. As described above, during Plaintiff's repeated visits to Defendant's website—the first occurring on June 26, 2022, and again on July 14, 2022, and July 30, 2022—Plaintiff encountered the access barriers set forth in paragraph 4 above that denied Plaintiff full and equal access to Defendant's website and the items sold there. These access barriers were the reason that Plaintiff was repeatedly denied the opportunity to purchase and obtain the full enjoyment of the products offered on the website and purchase the Polar Ignite for himself.

26. Plaintiff maintains a strong desire to purchase the Polar Ignite for himself. Plaintiff remains expectant that the accessibility barriers will be cured expeditiously, as Plaintiff unequivocally intends to return to the website to complete the desired purchase for himself to be able to enjoy the benchmark-setting Polar Ignite fitness watch as soon as the accessibility barriers are cured. As Defendant's website is available through the Internet, Plaintiff may easily return to the website and purchase fitness watches and the like for himself once the barriers to accessibility are removed.

Defendant must remove the website's accessibility barriers

27. The access barriers Plaintiff encountered have caused a denial of Plaintiff's full and equal access on multiple occasions in the past, and now deter Plaintiff from visiting the website—until such barriers are cured—presently and in the future. These access barriers have, on three separate occasions, deterred, and continue to deter, Plaintiff from learning about the various data driven, wearable devices, including fitness watches, and accessories available on Defendant's website as would sighted individuals. If the website were equally accessible to all, Plaintiff and the Class could independently navigate the website and complete a desired transaction as sighted individuals do.

28. Plaintiff has actual knowledge of the access barriers that make Defendant's website inaccessible and independently unusable by blind and visually-impaired people based on repeated attempts to purchase the Polar Ignite there. Because simple compliance with the WCAG 2.1 Guidelines would provide Plaintiff and the Class equal access to the website, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant has engaged in acts of intentional discrimination, including, but not limited to, the following policies or practices:

- (a) constructing and maintaining a website that is inaccessible to visually-impaired individuals, including Plaintiff and the Class;
- (b) failing to construct and maintain a website that is sufficiently intuitive so as to be equally accessible to visually-impaired individuals, including Plaintiff and the Class; and
- (c) failing to take actions to correct these access barriers in the face of substantial harm and discrimination to blind and visually-impaired consumers (a protected class), including Plaintiff and the Class.

29. Defendant therefore uses standards, criteria or methods of administration that have the effect of discriminating or perpetuating the discrimination of others, as alleged herein. Since Defendant's website is not equally accessible—and because Defendant lacks a corporate policy that is reasonably calculated to cause its website to become and remain accessible—it must retain a qualified consultant acceptable to Plaintiff to assist Defendant to comply with WCAG 2.1 guidelines for its website. Defendant must cooperate with the agreed upon consultant to:

- (a) train its employees and agents who develop the website on accessibility compliance under the WCAG 2.1 guidelines;
- (b) regularly check the accessibility of the website under the WCAG 2.1 guidelines;
- (c) regularly test user accessibility by blind or vision-impaired persons to ensure that Defendant's website complies under the WCAG 2.1 guidelines; and
- (d) develop an accessibility policy (clearly posted on its website(s)) with contact information for users to report accessibility-related problems.

30. If the website were accessible, Plaintiff and the Class would be able to independently purchase the fitness watches, heart rate sensors, and accessories Defendant sells there. Defendant has, upon information and belief, invested substantial sums in developing and maintaining its website and has generated significant revenue thereon. The revenues procured by Defendant far exceed the associated cost of making the website equally accessible to visually-impaired consumers.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

31. Plaintiff brings this action as a nationwide class action pursuant to Rules 23(a) and (b)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure ("Fed. R. Civ. P."), both individually and on behalf of the Class currently defined as: all visually-impaired or legally blind individuals in the United States who have attempted to access Defendant's website and have been denied access to the equal enjoyment of the goods offered on the website during the Class Period. Plaintiff also seeks certification of a sub-class of all visually-impaired and/or legally blind individuals in the City of New York who have attempted to access Defendant's website and have been denied access to the equal enjoyment of the goods offered on the website during the Class Period (the "NYC Sub-Class").³

32. Excluded from the Class are Defendant, any entity in which Defendant has a controlling interest, and the officers, directors, affiliates, legal representatives, heirs, successors, subsidiaries, and/or assigns of any such individual or entity.

33. Upon information and belief, there are hundreds of members in the Class who have suffered from Defendant's conduct complained of herein during the Class Period. Accordingly, joinder is impracticable pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 23(a)(1).

34. Common issues of fact or law predominate over individual issues within the meaning of Fed. R. Civ. P. Rule 23(a)(2). Common issues of law and fact include, but are not limited to, whether:

- (a) the website is a place of "public accommodation" under the ADA;
- (b) the website is a "place or provider of public accommodation" under the NYCHRL; and
- (c) the website denies the full and equal enjoyment of its products, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to people with visual disabilities, violating the ADA and/or NYCHRL;

³ The Class and NYC Sub-Class are hereinafter identified, collectively, as "the Class," unless otherwise stated.

35. Plaintiff's interests are typical of, and not antagonistic to the interests of, the Class and the claims arising out of Defendant's common uniform course of conduct are all based upon the same facts and legal theories.

36. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class. Plaintiff has retained competent counsel experienced with class actions and civil rights litigation who intend to vigorously prosecute this action. Plaintiff has similar legal bases for statutory and punitive damages that are sought on the behalf of members of the Class in this action. Class certification of the claims is appropriate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2) because Defendant has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Class, making appropriate both declaratory and injunctive relief with respect to Plaintiff and the Class as a whole.

37. Alternatively, class certification is appropriate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3). A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy since a multiplicity of actions could result in an unwarranted burden on the court system and could create the possibility of inconsistent judgments. Moreover, a class action will allow redress for many persons whose claims would otherwise be too small to litigate individually. There will be no difficulty in the management of this action as a class action.

38. Class members' identities can be identified by Defendant's records. Plaintiff reserves the right to amend the definition of the Class at any point of the litigation, especially after being provided the opportunity to review the documents and records produced in discovery.

COUNT I

Against Defendant for Violations of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. §§ 12101 et seq., on behalf of Plaintiff and the Class

39. Plaintiff incorporates by reference the preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

40. Section 302(a) of Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., provides:

No individual shall be discriminated against on the basis of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of any place of public accommodation by any person who owns, leases (or leases to), or operates a place of public accommodation.

42 U.S.C. § 12182(a).

41. Defendant’s website is a place of public accommodation within the definition of 42 U.S.C. § 12181(7). The website is a service that is offered to the general public, and as such, must be equally accessible to all potential consumers.

42. Under 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(1)(A)(i), it is unlawful discrimination to deny individuals with disabilities the opportunity to participate in – or benefit from – the products, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of an entity.

43. Under 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(1)(A)(ii), it is unlawful discrimination to deny individuals with disabilities an opportunity to participate in or benefit from the products, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodation, which is equal to the opportunities afforded to other individuals.

44. Under 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(2)(A)(ii)-(iii), unlawful discrimination also includes, among other things:

“failure to make reasonable modifications in policies, practices, or procedures, when such modifications are necessary to afford such goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to individuals with disabilities . . . and a failure to take such steps as may be necessary to ensure that no individual with a disability is excluded”

45. Plaintiff is a member of a protected class of persons who has a physical disability that substantially limits the major life activity of sight within the meaning of 42 U.S.C. §§ 12102(1)(A)-(2)(A).

46. Furthermore, Plaintiff has been denied full and equal access to the website, has not been provided goods that are provided to other patrons who are not disabled, and has been provided goods that are inferior to the services provided to non-disabled persons.

47. Defendant has failed to take any prompt and equitable steps to remedy its discriminatory conduct. These violations are ongoing.

COUNT II

Against Defendant for Violations of the New York City Human Rights Law, N.Y.C. Administrative Code §§ 8-101 et seq., on behalf of Plaintiff and the NYC Sub-Class

48. Plaintiff incorporates by reference the preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

49. N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-107(4)(a) provides that:

“It shall be an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person, being the owner, franchisor, franchisee, lessor, lessee, proprietor, manager, superintendent, agent or employee of any place or provider of public accommodation, because of . . . disability . . . directly or indirectly, to refuse, withhold from or deny to such person, the full and equal enjoyment on equal terms and conditions, of any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges of the place or provide of public accommodation.”

50. Defendant’s website is a “sales establishment” and “public accommodation” within the definition of N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-102(9). Defendant owns and operates its website, making it a “person” within the meaning of N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-102(1).

51. By maintaining a website with accessibility barriers, Defendant violates N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-107(4)(a). This inaccessibility denies blind patrons full and equal access to the facilities, products, and services that Defendant makes available to the non-disabled public.

52. Under N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-107(15)(a), Defendant is required to:

“make reasonable accommodation to the needs of persons with disabilities . . . it is an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person prohibited by the provisions of [§ 8-107 et seq.] from discriminating on the basis of disability not to provide a reasonable accommodation to enable a person with a disability to . . . enjoy the right or rights in question provided that the disability is known or should have been known by the covered entity.”

53. Defendant’s actions constitute willful intentional discrimination against the Sub-Class on the basis of a disability in violation of the N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-107(4)(a) and § 8-107(15)(a) in that Defendant has constructed and maintained a website with accessibility barriers and failed to take action to fix the access barriers. These violations are ongoing.

54. As such, under § 8-107(4)(a) and/or its implementing regulations, Defendant discriminates, and will continue in the future to discriminate, against Plaintiff and the NYC Sub-Class. Unless the Court enjoins Defendant from continuing to engage in these unlawful practices, Plaintiff and the NYC Sub-Class will continue to suffer irreparable harm. Plaintiff is also entitled to compensatory damages, as well as civil penalties and fines under §§ 8-120(8) and 8-126(a) for each offense, as well as punitive damages pursuant to § 8-502.

COUNT III

Against Defendant for Declaratory Relief, on behalf of Plaintiff and the Class

55. Plaintiff incorporates by reference the preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

56. Defendant’s website contains access barriers denying blind customers full and equal access to the products. The website violates 42 U.S.C. §§ 12182, et seq., and N.Y.C. Admin. Code § 8-107, et seq., which prohibit discrimination against the blind.

57. A judicial declaration is, therefore, necessary, and appropriate.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff demands a judgment:

(a) awarding Plaintiff statutory money damages, actual damages, and punitive damages, including pre-judgment and post-judgment interest;

(b) granting a preliminary and permanent injunction requiring Defendant to take all the steps necessary to make its website fully comply with the requirements set forth in the ADA and NYCHRL;

(c) providing a declaration that Defendant owns, maintains and/or operates its website in a manner that discriminates against the blind and visually-impaired;

(d) certifying the Class and the NYC Sub-Class under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a) & (b)(2) and/or (b)(3), appointing Plaintiff as class representative, and Plaintiff's attorneys as class counsel;

(e) awarding attorneys' fees and costs, and other relief; and

(f) awarding such other relief as this Court deems just and proper.

JURY DEMAND

Plaintiff demands a trial by jury.
